Thought for the week:
God hasn't changed in His attitude toward discouragement. To be discouraged is to get our eyes off God and on circumstances. It is nothing short of unbelief. It is doubting the love and faithfulness of God. And God cannot use a discouraged person.

Illinois State Capitol News

A feature of the Illinois State fair will be a daily musical program by high school orchestras, starting at 2:00 p. m. each afternoon from August 10 through August 16. These programs will be presented in the exposition building.

Official closing dates for all exhibits at the Illinois State fair, other than livestock, will be July 25. Livestock exhibits closed July 18.

Preparing facilities for the thousands of exhibits has been an unusually complex job this year because of material shortages and the many alterations made by the U. S. Army while it was using the premises as a supply depot.

Harvesting of Illinois Elberta peaches will probably begin next week in Union and Massac counties, and peach picking around Centralia will start a few days later. This season's Illinois peach crop will be about 1,144,000 bushels, according to state and federal departments of agriculture. Last year 1,748,000 bushels were harvested, and the ten-year average crop for the state is 1,337,000 bushels.

The best fall and winter apple crop in several years is developing in Calhoun county, leading apple-producing county in Illinois. Present indications are for an Illinois commercial apple crop of about 3,599,000 bushels, well above last year's 2,684,000 bushels and the ten-year state average of 3,168,000 bushels. All varieties are at least ten days early this year.

5,500,000 Autos Are On Order

Detroit, July 11—Orders on hand for new passenger automobiles total something in excess of 5,500,000 units, according to authoritative estimates.

If the car industry follows the anticipated pattern, production should catch up with accumulating demand by the end of 1947, or early 1948. Trade experts plotting production trends forecast that assembly plants will turn out about 2,000,000 passenger cars between now and Dec. 31, and add about 4,000,000 more in 1947.

These figures represent the more realistic thinking of the industry's conservative executives. None of these leaders ever placed much faith in reports that the war had piled up a backlog of demand for more than 12,500,000 vehicles. The latter figure, these executives say, more truly represents probable demand over five or six years, taking into account annual normal replacement requirements.

Sales managers say that prices will be more of a factor than ever before in determining the volume of demand. Demand for cars from buyers to whom costs are secondary probably will be filled by early 1947. Most of the remainder of the estimated 5,500,000 buyers will require only a little urging to overcome their price objections.

From that point, however, automobile merchandising is expected to become a buyer's market. The potential purchaser will expect a lot of consideration with respect to trade-in allowance on his old car and he will have to be convinced that it is practical economically to replace his 1940 or later model.

The argument that "your car is seven years old," usually was convincing in the prewar days. But during nearly four years of war, gasoline rationing limited the average driver to about one year of normal travel. Moreover he learned a lot of things about taking care of his car. As a result, almost any vehicle built subsequent to 1939 is as good mechanically at least, as the three-year-old prewar model.

Cooper & Eckerty will have their grand opening on Friday and Saturday, July 26 and 27.

Carlos Brewer Given A Birthday Surprise

Carlos Brewer was given a surprise party on Friday evening, July 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schweineke, on the occasion of his birthday anniversary.

The evening was spent in playing monopoly, and refreshments were served consisting of angel food cake and ice cream.

Those present besides Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Brewer were Messrs. and Mesdames Wayne Warnes, Villa Grove; Lloyd Davis, Longview; Arthur Frick, of Sidney; Ralph McGee, Newman; Ralph Schweineke, Newman; Wayne Brewer, Homer. Several of the guests were members of the Longview high school graduating class with Carlos.

Second Half Of Race Season Begins

Farmer City, Ill., Midget auto racing with all its thrills and chills, sensational racing and numerous spins, begins its second half of the season at the American Legion speedway at Fairbury, Ill. every Wednesday night and every Thursday night at the Farmer City speedway.

Ray Richards edged out Mike O'Halloran to win the midseason championship at the American Legion speedway, but O'Halloran held his early lead at Farmer City speedway to grab off the glory and attractive purse presented to the winner. Frank Burany runner-up to the winners figured in an early season spill which slowed him up. Jimmy Caris who figured in a spectacular spill expects to resume driving in another week.

These speedways are attracting some of the nation's greatest drivers. Emil Andres, fourth place winner in the Memorial Day classic, and Tony Bettenhausen, national champion, joined the array of stars who competed last week. Tony dazed fans with his speed at Fairbury while taking the feature, and finished second at Farmer City behind O'Halloran. The real battle for the trophy to be awarded in September begins this week, as a new fight for points begins. Races start at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. T. M. Shurts Is Missionary Society Hostess

The Fairfield Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. T. M. Shurts on Wednesday, July 17, with most of the members and six guests present.

Mrs. James Church was in charge of the devotions. Mrs. Homer McIntyre gave the Missionary topic, her subject being "Upstream and Byways."

Miss Joan Shurts, accompanied by Miss Dorothy McIntyre, gave a lovely solo, which was much appreciated by all.

During the social hour the hostess served delicious refreshments.

The August meeting will be held at the Fairfield church and will be the annual birthday dinner.

Fries For Sale—Size 3 to 4 lbs. Ethel Mae Coryell, Phone 48F12, Allerton.

Allerton 'Oldtimers' Honored By Club

Allerton—Three veteran Allerton business men—Harlan W. Six, 85, Harry Allen, 80, and Harry Fleming, past 70—were honored at a meeting of this village's new Lions club Thursday, July 11, in the Presbyterian church.

Introduced by F. A. Dicks, chairman, the three 'old-timers' told of early experiences in the local business arena. E. A. Mohr, Lion president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mr. Six, this community's oldest stock buyer, was the first man to ship cattle by railroad from Allerton, Broadlands, Longview, Fairland and Villa Grove. Railroads were first available to local stockers when the Chicago and Eastern Illinois sent a line through in 1887.

Mr. Six, who retired from farming last spring, used temporary stock pens built by the C. & E. I. when he first began shipping by railroad. He also handled corn during the winters and had two cribs built where Newman township high school now stands.

Back in those days, Mr. Six recalled, the highest price paid for corn during any two years was 17½ cents a bushel.

Mr. Allen, who has purchased grain in this community for 50 years, said he paid $80 for the first pair of scales used here—"and the company sent a man to install them." Installation price was $5.

Mr. Fleming originally operated a blacksmith shop here before taking up the same trade in Watseka. He later returned to Allerton, however, and is still doing some blacksmith work.

Bengston-Swearigen Vows Are Announced

Clinton—The marriage of Miss Jean Swearigen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Swearigen, of Weldon, and Earl Bengston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bengston of Longview, took place Sunday, July 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Payne in Peoria. Mr. and Mrs. Payne attended the couple.

The bride is a graduate of Nixon township high school and the bridegroom graduated from the Longview high school. He also attended Walton Commercial college in Chicago.

Miss Dyar to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dyar of near Longview are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Betty Lou, to Max E. Brandon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Velasco Brandon of Adrian, Ill. The wedding will take place August 1.

JESUS AND REVERENCE FOR SPIRITUAL VALUES

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:7; Leviticus 19:12; Matthew 5:33-37; Mark 7:5-8; 8:34-36.
MEMORY SELECTION—But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6:33.

Reverence is not an incidental thing which we may or may not choose to have in our lives. It is vital. Reverence toward God and the things of God will result in respect for all values in life. It will balance our thinking, speaking, and our acting toward our fellow men as well as toward our God. Our lesson calls for

I. Reverence in Worship (Exod. 20:7; Lev. 19:12).

The Lord rightfully expects from us a proper attitude toward him. If we worship him as we should, we shall find that other matters fall into their proper relationships.

Essential in true worship is reverence for the name of the Lord, for that name stands for all the qualities and characteristics of God. This means that there must be no taking of the name of the Lord "in vain." Our use of the word "vain" carries the meaning of "useless, without purpose or meaning." This is part of what is in mind in this commandment, for the name of Jehovah is sacred and is to be revered as standing for the eternal God.

It is never to be used carelessly, or for a frivolous purpose. All too often we tell jokes or stories which have no real purpose or meaning except to elicit a laugh, and in them we use the name of God. We all need to exercise care at that point.

The Hebrew word translated "vain" has the additional meaning of "evil" and "falsehood." Men are so bold that they may even use the name of God to support themselves in a lie. God hears and will in no wise hold them guiltless.

II. Reverence in Words (Matt. 5:33-37).

The Sermon on the Mount (so-called), from which this portion of Scripture is taken, is difficult to interpret to the satisfaction of all. Some disregard its evident application to the kingdom and, attempting to apply it in the midst of an understanding generation, fall into such inconsistency that they abandon the effort and regard the teaching of the passage as impossible idealism.

Others, who rightly interpret the passage as presenting the laws and principles of life in the kingdom of God, when it shall be fully set up on earth with Jesus as King, fail to make any application of those principles to life. This is also an unfortunate error.

We who follow the Lord Jesus are not to swear by either things sacred or things that might be called secular. Perhaps he has in mind that our lives should be so true that men will not need to have any kind of oath to be assured of our sincerity and honesty.

Swearing should be entirely beyond the pale with Christian men and women. It is all too common with both men and women. One fears that this is true not only in the world, but among professed believers in Christ. Let us stop it!

III. Reverence in Works (Mark 7:5-8).

Words which do not issue in works are worse than meaningless. They lead to acceptance of a formal religious system which is dangerous.

"It gives a sense of religious satisfaction which is very superficial, but of some apparent value. It carries with it no high ethical demands. It helps a man to feel religious without being either ethical or moral. It does not probe or arouse. It soothes and calms" (W. R. White).

Who will deny that much of the church life of our day has reached that same sad state of "much ado about nothing"—talk, talk, talk, and no honest disposition to deal with sin, or to seek holiness of life. The Lord hates it, and it is a vain exercise as far as spiritual results are concerned.

IV. Reverence in Will (Mark 8:34-36).

Here true reverence shows itself in recognizing that God's will is "good and acceptable and perfect" (Rom. 12:1).

Following the Christ of Calvary calls for a willingness to say no to self (literally, to deny any connection with self-life) and to follow through with him on the path of shame and crucifixion. No self-will and no compromise are permissible to Christ's disciples.

Foolishly to attempt to hold one's life for self is to lose it. That painful loss has left brokenhearted, wrecked lives all along the path of man's history. But why should anyone do it?

Equally foolish is the one who supposes that this world has anything to satisfy the human soul. Assuming the possibility of the impossible—that is, attaining the whole world as one's own possession—to do so at the cost of one's soul would be an indescribably poor bargain.

Oldfield On Safety

Barney Oldfield, famous auto racing driver of early days, says that while motor cars of the present are vastly superior to those of the past, drivers have not improved their ways but do the same old foolish things that cause accidents, injuries and death.

Better cars, wider and straighter roads, and more traffic signs have not served to reduce the accident rate, but on the contrary seem to have increased the temptation to higher speeds and more reckless driving on the part of many motorists.

During the war, the scarcity of gasoline and stricter speed limits did cause a reduction in the number of traffic deaths and injuries, but in recent months accidents have been increasing at an appalling rate.

If only the reckless drivers suffered as a result of their folly it would not be so bad, but unfortunately thousands of innocent passengers, pedestrians and careful drivers are also victims. Many pedestrians are likewise careless, taking chances that often end in disaster.

And all the warnings that may be given appear to have little effect in reducing the terrible traffic toll.

Accidents Avoidable

Misfortunes generally classed as accidents are, in most cases avoidable, as an eminent surgeon reminds us, being caused by carelessness or sheer recklessness on the part of some individual. Nearly all of us are at times guilty of neglecting the simple precautions whereby accidents might be prevented.

The majority of accidents are caused by a failure to keep in mind the possible consequences of a slight mistake in judgment, or the habit of 'taking a chance,' even when the danger of doing so is realized.

Even during the war, more Americans died as a result of accidents than were killed by enemy action. During the last 20 years accidental deaths in the United States have averaged approximately 100,000 a year, and the indications are that in 1946 that number will be greatly exceeded.

Types of fatal accidents have followed a consistent pattern for many years, in the following order: traffic, falling, burns, drowning—these four causes accounting for about 60 per cent of the total.

The week of July 21-27 has been designated as National Safety Week. If any of the many special "weeks" deserves thoughtful consideration, this is certainly one of them. But it is difficult to convince the average person that most accidents could be avoided by the exercise of elementary caution and common sense.

Atom Tests at Bikini

As was to have been expected, the first over-water atomic bomb test at Bikini brought forth many conflicting opinions regarding the significance of its results. Some thought the experiment was disappointing, because more of the ships were not sunk, while others believe the blast would have been fatal to most of the ship's crews if the vessels had been manned.

To most military men and scientists, the effects of the bomb were about what was expected under the circumstances. The bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki had given a definite idea of the new weapon's destructive effect upon a city, but in order to determine how steel ships would be effected, the Bikini tests were necessary.

Obviously the destruction caused in any case would depend upon the accuracy of the bombardier's aim, also upon whether the bomb exploded at the height intended; and neither of these factors could be determined with absolute exactness, as nothing was left to "mark the spot."

One report said the Bikini bomb apparently exploded within 200 yards of the battleship Nevada, the central target ship—quite close, considering that it was dropped from a height of five miles or more.

The next test, scheduled for July 25, will be made with a bomb submerged to a depth of 50 feet in the Bikini lagoon, instead of being dropped from a plane. It will be exploded by some means of remote control not yet revealed.

It will take several months for the experts to examine and evaluate the data to be derived from these tests. But it does not take an expert to realize what a terrible weapon man has devised. And no one knows what to do about it.

Sidelights

We have found that the best way to learn how much work you do in a day is to take a few days off and then try to catch up. The fellow who first said "never put off until tomorrow what you can do today" really said something.

A French scientist predicts that in a thousand years' time the Atlantic Ocean will have disappeared and that America and Great Britain will be joined. We understand, however, that G. I. brides are not being asked to wait.

Why is it that all of us love to be praised for something we have done well and are terribly hurt when we feel we are due it and it does not come—and yet, when we do receive praise, usually "muff the ball" completely in our attempt to make ourselves appear unworthy of it. Most people are poor actors.

We are just wondering whether the current sky-rocketing of prices on food and other necessities will bring more merchandise to retailers and a readjustment of prices on a fair and equitable level, or if it will mean an early overloading of the market coupled with a buyers' strike and so cause a complete collapse of the price structure, thus bringing about a depression so terrible that we may speak of the days of 1932-33 as lush times. Either could happen almost overnight.

Certainly the many anglers in this area should be interested in the accepted Fisherman's Prayer that we just ran across: "When Gabriel blows his blast and I come home to rest at last, don't measure me for a harp and wings, let me have instead these things: Some tackle and a rod and reel, a pair of waders and a creel, a gushing, frothy glacial stream, a quiet lake by which to dream; an angel pal with whom to angle, magic lines that will not tangle. And permission, with fingers crossed, to lie about the fish I lost."

Undulant Socialism

A sick republic, like a human invalid, passes through a crisis in the course of almost any protracted illness. After the crisis, the patient rallies toward recovery or sinks with alarming haste toward the end. Whatever is to be done after a crisis must be accomplished with dispatch, or it is too late. The English government passed through a crisis approximately a year ago. Since England's current administration proclaimed itself owner and operator of the coal mines, Britain has been viewed popularly as Socialistic—one of the collectivist nations. Not all the individuals in the Empire are socialists. Large elements are not. But this large minority is being forgotten. Curtains are being drawn. The crisis is over and England has gone left.

A Long Time Dead.
There is something strangely final about it when a free people turns its course toward State Socialism. Liberty never comes back without a revolution and then it's not the same. Such is the testimony of recorded history. Industrially, England is a coal country and private enterprise lost its last stronghold on the enchanted island when King Coal surrendered.

Now the ailment that prostrated John Bull has been communicated to Uncle Sam. The symptoms are unmistakable as undulant fever; wave upon wave of collectivist power, with a show of growing intensity. Our government has taken over our coal mines from their owners because of work stoppages through strikes—strikes by the best paid group of mine workers on earth.

Here's the Pattern
I think perhaps the workers ought to have had an increase in pay, which they no doubt could have obtained without striking. Nevertheless, they struck and government took over the business long enough, at least, to close a new contract giving an increase of $1.85 a day per man and a royalty of 5c a ton on coal to give their union a "welfare" fund. The new "welfare" fund has no relation to the union's sick and accident fund, already large.

The new contract will raise the price of coal 25c to 30c a ton and build up the "welfare" fund at the rate of 25 million dollars a year. The Senate has approved the executive department's right to impose this contract on the mine owners when they take their property back. This is an attack of the undulant socialism.

Works Like This:
Government can now control the cost of coal to the owner of a mine. By fixing labor's wage, a ruler can make coal production cost whatever suits his fancy. Government already controls the price of coal to the consumer through the workings of the OPA. The neck of the coal industry is in a legal nut-cracker and government has the power to choke it to death at will—that, or take it over entirely.

With the sanction of Congress, which I hope never comes, federal officials can do to any industry what they are doing to coal. Each assault on freedom will be one more attack of the dread disease, undulant socialism. It works like the fever which, scientific men say, can be cured in rare instances if vigorous treatment is begun in the early stages.

SAVE 10% OF FUEL
As much as 10 per cent of winter fuel can be saved by reducing home temperatures 6 degrees during the night, according to results of tests made under actual home conditions at the University of Illinois.

The fifth annual observance of World Community Day will be held in the nation's churches on Friday, Nov. 1, it is announced by Mrs. Ruth Mougey Worrull, of the United Council of Church Women, which sponsors the event. Three major emphases will be considered in programs in thousands of communities that day: the urging of the national government's activities toward the building of lasting world peace; the practice of peace on the local community level thru goodwill, tolerance, and social, economic and racial understanding and cooperation; and the use of religion as the basis of judgment and evaluation in all problems and departments of life.

American housewives are urged by Church World Service—general Protestant overseas relief agency—to can and preserve food supplies this summer so as to release commercially preserved foods for shipping to the needy of Europe and Asia. "Every can of fruit or vegetables that goes on the pantry shelf will release that much more nonperishable food for the hunger areas," says Dr. Leslie B. Moss of the C. W. S. "It is just as Christian to preserve food at home as it is to give money for the purchases of supplies for the starving. It indirectly, but definitely, serves the needs of humanity and extends the hand of worldwide fellowship. It should be stressed, however, that home canning is for home consumption, not for shipment abroad."

Smile Awhile

Footprints on the sands of time are not made by sitting around.

Life is one fool thing after another. Love is two fool things after each other.

Don't bore your friends with your troubles; tell your enemies, who'll enjoy hearing about them.

What is a cynic? A man who knows the price of everything, and the value of nothing.

Dear old lady to infant—How are you, my little man?
Infant—O. K., baby!

Every man is as Heaven made him, and sometimes a great deal worse.

He—Aren't the stars numerous tonight?
She—Yeah! And ain't there a lot of them?

Could I try on that red dress in the window? asked the bright young thing.

Sorry, lady, you'll have to use the fitting-rooms like everyone else, replied the haughty floor-walker.

I want you to understand, said the teacher, that it is the law of gravity that keeps us on this earth.

Please, asked little Nellis, how did we stick on before the law was passed?

Aunt Lucy, said the lady of the house, you don't mean to tell me you've gone and got married again?

Aunt Lucy—Yes, I'm is, honey. De fo'th time, too. Looks lak jess as often as de Lawd takes 'em—so does I.

The train came to a sudden, grinding stop, causing the passengers to jump.

What has happened, conductor, cried a nervous old lady.
Nothing much. We ran over a cow.

Why, was it on the track?
No, replied the disgusted conductor, we chased it into a barn.

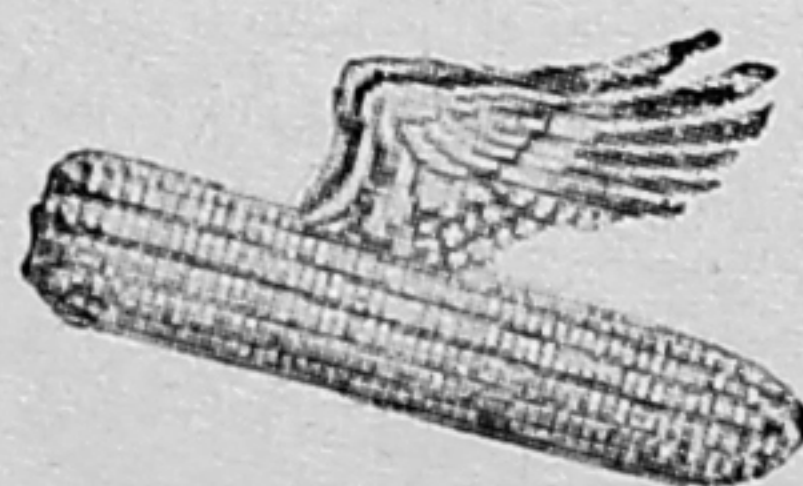

Severely jostled in the thundering herd of New York's rush hour, a fragile young woman finally found herself in a solid block. Her sense of humor was not impaired, however. She poked her face close to the ear of an adjoining male.

Look! she demanded tartly. My rib! Is it crushing your elbow?

"How Your Television 'Commercial' Will Look"

To enhance an impressive list of manufacturing "firsts," Chevrolet now engages in another pioneering venture as the first motor car manufacturer to sponsor a regular commercial television show. Admittedly an exploratory venture to evaluate the possibilities of television as an advertising medium, these broadcasts were the first employing live talent to be sponsored by any automobile producer. Four weekly shows were staged by Chevrolet and broadcast through the facilities of the American Broadcasting Company's television network. The shows were televised at the Dumont Studios in New York for the three stations currently teamed in the ABC television network. Shown above is a scene from the second of the series, a half-hour program titled "Roads to Romance."

U. of I. Clinic Fights Cancer; Services Free

Cancer control efforts of the State of Illinois have increased substantially since the establishment three years ago of the central Tumor Clinic on the Chicago campus of the University of Illinois and four other diagnostic clinics throughout the State.

Offering services in the treatment as well as the diagnosis of cancer, the University Clinic, which is co-sponsored by the State Department of Health's Division of Cancer Control, now serves 350 patients per month, and this number is continuing to grow month by month.

In its first year the University Clinic had 299 new patients and 2,293 patient-visits. In the second year, 425 new patients and 3,195 patient-visits were registered. In this third year, with more than a month yet to go, 490 new patients have been seen and 3,317 patient-visits have been recorded.

Free consultation service is provided to anyone in the state who comes to the University Tumor Clinic accompanied by his physician. Also, free diagnosis and treatment is available for indigent patients referred to the Clinic by a doctor.

The Clinic is a co-operative project of several departments of the University College of Medicine and uses the facilities of the University Research and Educational Hospitals. Complete surgical facilities, X-ray, radium, and a radon emanation plant (which allows more flexible use of radium in the treatment of cancer) are available in the Clinic.

In addition to its services to patients, the Tumor Clinic activities include research and instruction for both undergraduate and postgraduate medical students.

"Since the Clinic has been in operation only three years, we cannot as yet fully evaluate its effectiveness from the standpoint of the accepted criterion of a five-year cure rate," says Dr. Danely P. Slaughter, director. "We do know, however, that the only way we will ever be able to control cancer effectively will be by detecting and treating early cases of the disease in clinics of this sort."

'Baby Betatron' New Wartime Development Announced at U. of I.

A "baby" betatron, whose radiations equal those from 3 grams of radium, but which costs only one-tenth the radium's price, was a secret wartime development at the University of Illinois. The machine is portable and simple in construction and operation. It produces an x-ray beam of 4-million volts energy.

This is one of two wartime betatron developments carried on at the University under auspices of the Federal Office of Scientific Research and Development. The other wartime development, announced some time ago, is a push-button controlled 20-million volt betatron for use as an industrial x-ray machine.

The "baby" is nearly twice as powerful as the world's first betatron built at Illinois in 1940 by Prof. Donald W. Kerst. The University also has the first 20-million volt instrument of this type and now is building a betatron to have more than 250-million volts energy. It is expected to produce cosmic ray effects in the laboratory and open entirely new fields to science.

A Dangerous Tree

There is a tree directly across the street from The News office which has us worried. Its trunk is mostly hollow, and we wonder when the next storm from the north hits us, if that tree won't also do the same, unless something is done about it.

NOTICE

Recently a roof was put on the Methodist parsonage and a hot water heater was attached to the water system in the basement. It would be appreciated if members of the Church would leave donations to meet this expense with Hugo DeWitt.
